大問4 英文要約 模範解答

Public bicycle repair stations offer shared tools, tire pumps, and basic instructions along cycling routes. They make cycling more convenient and help residents and tourists handle minor problems without immediately visiting a shop. However, tools may break or disappear, some repairs require professionals, and regular inspections and maintenance funding are necessary.

大問5 意見英作文 模範解答

I think schools should use more recycled materials in art classes. First, students can become more creative when they have to find unusual ways to use cardboard, paper, or clean containers. They may learn that interesting art does not always require expensive supplies. Second, reusing suitable materials can reduce waste and help students think about environmental problems in practical ways. Teachers must still check that every material is safe and clean before bringing it into a classroom. With sensible rules, I believe recycled materials could make art lessons both interesting and responsible.
